All the Same to Him

One of a party of gentlemen left his corner seat in an already crowded railway car to go in search of something to eat, leaving a rug to reserve his place. On returning he found that, in spite of the rug and the protests of his fellow passengers, the seat had been usurped by a woman clad in handsome clothes. With flashing eyes she turned upon him:

"Do you know, sir, that I am one of the directors' wives?"

"Madam," he replied, "were you the director's only wife I should still protest."

MUST SIGN ENGAGEMENT

A New Rule for Catholics Contemplating Marriage.

After next Easter Roman Catholics will have to sign contracts when they engage to marry. This is a part of the new matrimonial regulations which Pope Pius X has ordered enforced in America, as they have been in Catholic countries since the council of Trent in the sixteenth century.

At present Catholic churches "publish the banns" several Sundays before a wedding. This consists in an announcement made from the pulpit by the priest that the persons are to be married on a certain date. The new marriage regulations require a young man and woman who are engaged to marry to sign a written agreement to that effect in the presence of two witnesses. Then the engagement is binding and is "published in church."

The young people must marry unless they can show the bishop of the diocese in which the agreement was signed a reason why it should be broken. The bishop may then issue a dispensation and an agreement to break the engagement must be signed by both the young people in the presence of two witnesses.

"These laws regarding matrimony have been in force in the Catholic countries of Europe and Asia since their publication in the Sixteenth century," said the Rev. Anton Kuhls of St. Mary's church in the West Side. Father Kuhls has been studying the marriage regulations and will deliver a series of Sunday night lectures on them, beginning October 6, in order that his parishioners may understand every detail.

"This country was an unknown wilderness when the Council of Trent held its session," continued Father Kuhls. "As the regulations were never published here they have never been enforced. Now the Pope desires that the regulations be enforced in the New World and among all Catholics. Easter, 1908, is the date set for the regulations to go into effect." Other priests said that they would also deliver lectures on the marriage regulations. —Kansas City Star.

Nervous
Indigestion

The action of digestion is controlled by nerves leading to the stomach. When they are weak, the stomach is deprived of its energy. It has no power to do its work. If you want permanent relief, you must restore this energy. Dr. Miles' Nervine restores nervous energy, and gives the organs power to perform their functions.

"For many years I was an acute sufferer from nervous indigestion; at times I was so despondent life seemed almost a burden. I tried all kinds of remedies and various physicians with little or no relief, until one night last summer I saw Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure advertised. I resolved to make one more trial which I did in the purchase of one bottle of Nervine and one of Heart Cure. In a few days I began to feel better, which encouraged me so much that I continued the medicine until I had taken more than a dozen bottles. I am very much improved in every way; in body, mind and spirits since. I make a special point to recommend the medicine, and I feel a sincere pleasure in knowing that several persons have been benefited through my recommendation."

A. S. MELTON, Ashville, N. C.
Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

HARROWING THE CORN.

Do it, and Do it at the Right Time to Obtain Best Results.

Much good can be done with a harrow in a corn field where it is intelligently used, and more harm can be done when put in the hands of a man who knows little and cares less. A very light, slant tooth harrow should be used for this purpose, and then if the field is clear of rubbish so that the harrow can be kept clean it should be most excellent work. Care should be taken not to go on the field when the soil is wet and sticky. One should aim, however, to get on the field as soon after a rain as possible and still do good work before the surface gets dry and crusted. If the harrow is kept moving from the time the corn is planted until it begins to break ground the field will be loose and free from weeds, and then one should keep off until he can follow the rows with the corn cultivator.

I do not like to harrow corn after it is up, says a correspondent of the Northwestern Farmer. I will not say one cannot raise a good crop and harrow it; but it is usually detrimental and ordinarily does more harm than good. It is not necessary where one does justice to the ground before this time. Corn is one of the crops that must have attention at the right time if the best results are secured, as no amount of after work will fully make up for neglect.

I have often seen a good man and team do more work and better work in one day in a cornfield, than three men and three teams could in the same length of time later on. This was doing the right thing at the proper time and "taking the stitch in time that saves nine" later on.

A FLAT TOP WHEELBARROW.

One Which Will Be Specially Handy in Transporting Boxes, Etc.

We present herewith a sketch of a wheelbarrow which a correspondent of Prairie Farmer considers to be indispensable about his farm. The general idea of construction is very well brought out in the illustration. The two side pieces A A are six feet long and are 15 inches apart at the wheel. The end C is supported by two side pieces which are mortised to A A. Frame work is then covered by boards. B is a leg nailed to the bar, extending up to the frame. This kind of a wheelbarrow is recommended for transporting anything in boxes or barrels, finding it particularly suitable for transporting blaves of bees.

Hard Hit.

Keep Good Horses.

We know a farmer who has over $1,000 invested in old plug horses, Ringbones, spavins, wire cuts, curbs and blemishes are noticeable. He has ten head and none of them can be depended on for a decent day's work. He has a neighbor who has three horses, free from blemishes, which cost him $600, but with these three horses he can do more work in a season on a third of the feed than the man who has ten head. At the present price of feed, a horse is not worth keeping unless he is a good one and able to do lots of hard work.

A Stab at It.

"Hic jacet," quoted Miss Pechts, as they strolled through the cemetery, "what does that mean on all these old tombstones?"
"Why-er-you see," began Bluffer, "that's an abbreviation for 'hickory jacket'—that is to say, 'hickory coffin.' That's the kind they used in old times, see?"—Philadelphia Press.

Used to It.

The aged millionaire was observed to jump nimbly from in front of the speeding automobile and hurry away.
"You're wonderfully agile," remarked one who had seen him.
"Nothing like practice," replied the millionaire. "The man in that auto was the tax assessor."
